And soon,
amidst all
the conflicts,
the stone slowly
disappears from sight and even now, continues
to roam the lands.

The eye's master
is marked by a
red stone
embedded
in his right hand
and is said
in legends
to have unified
the world.

A trail of fresh footprints stained with Aldo's blood were also found leading from the outside in.

The post-mortem indicates death caused by a single blow from behind.

the imperial guards are investigating the crime scene.

and successfully convinced Aldo to open the door for him.

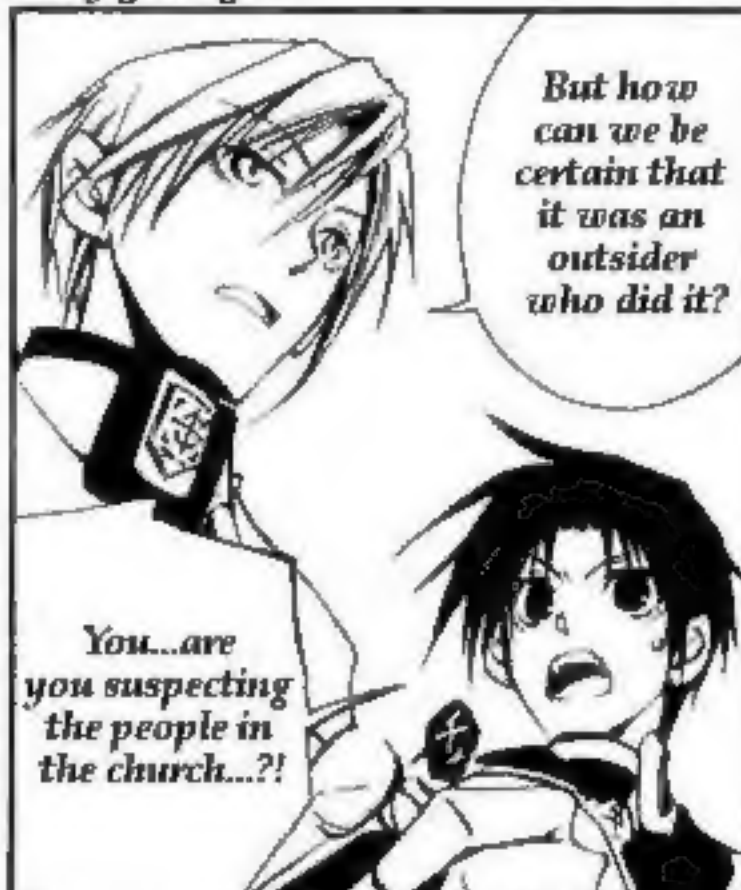

His murderer was probably someone begging for compassion outside the door

TSN: Pretty good guess

It is extremely important to consider every possibility.

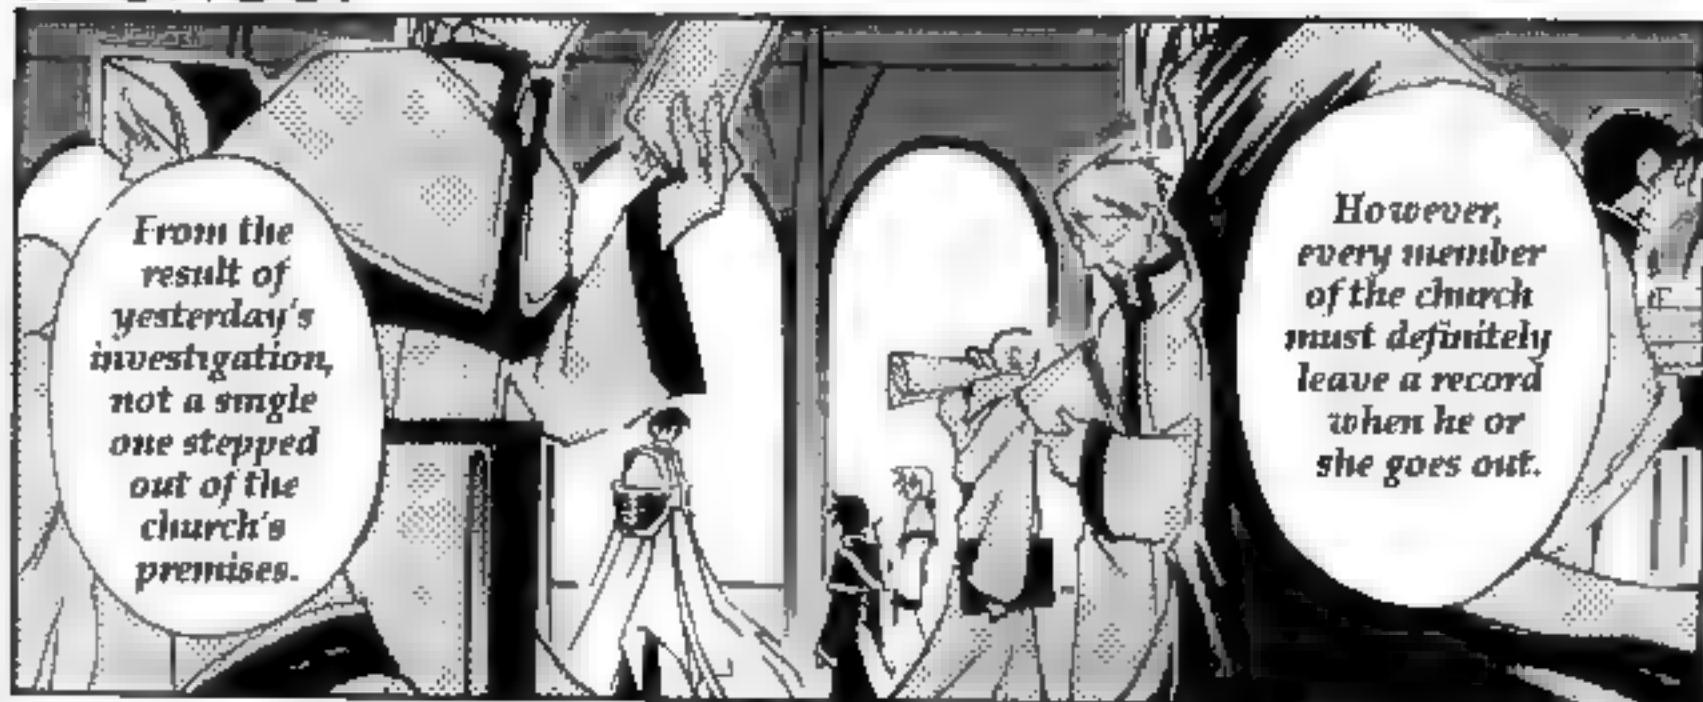

No.

But how can we be certain that it was an outsider who did it?

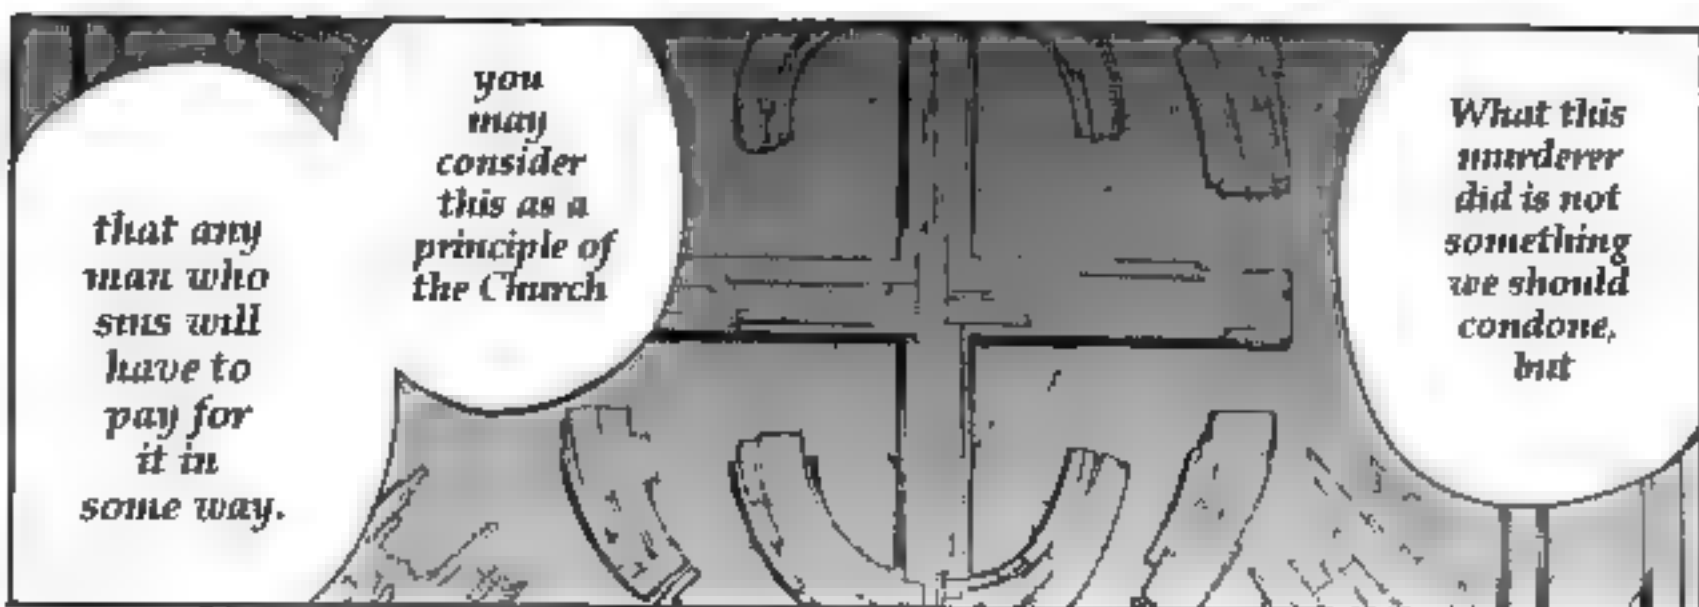

You...are you suspecting the people in the church...?!

From the result of yesterday's investigation, not a single one stepped out of the church's premises.

However, every member of the church must definitely leave a record when he or she goes out.

that any man who sins will have to pay for it in some way.

you may consider this as a principle of the Church

What this murderer did is not something we should condone, but a murderer like Aldo could only pay for his sins with his life.

Once god determines that you ruin other lives by your existence, then like the Kor,

Everything

will be decided by the heaven-sent
seven gods.

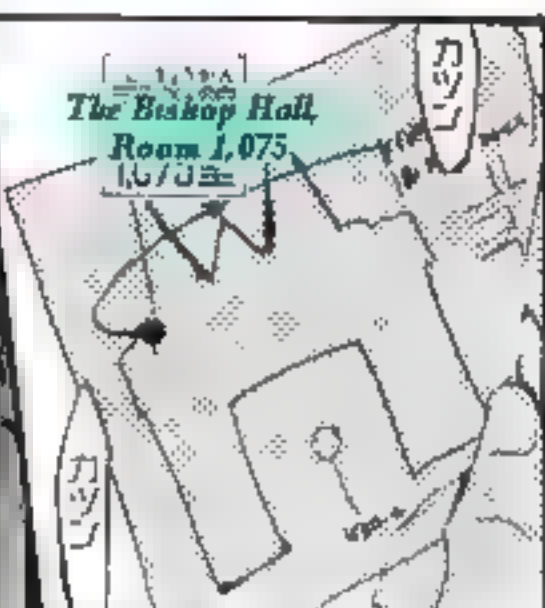

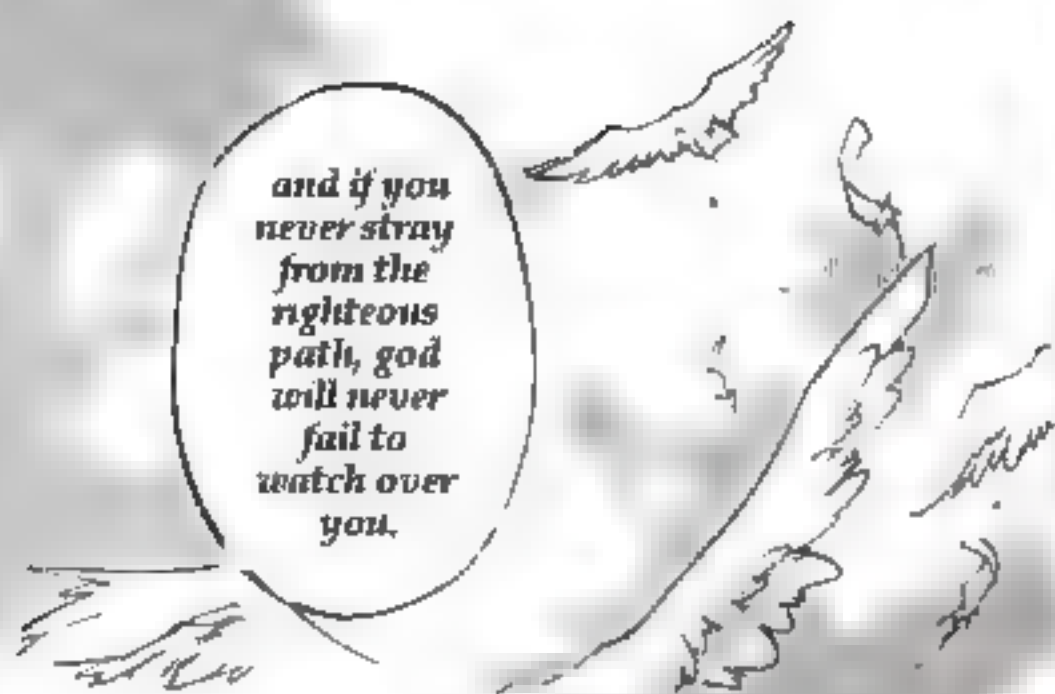

Never

will they

allowances

evil.

I'm really

But...why
